VOL. 47. NO. 35 MIDDLETOWN, DELAWARE, SATURDAY MORNING, AUGUST 29, 1914 PRICE THREE CENTS

LOST THEIR LICENSE

Secretary of State Miller Hit Joy Riders a Hard Blow

WERE FINED BY SQUIRE COX

Secretary of State Thomas W. Miller has revoked the automobile operator's licenses which were held by John W. Thompson and Leonard Hatfield, both of Seaford.

The licenses were revoked according to the provisions of Section 18, Chap. 120, Vol. 25, Laws of Delaware, which is the motor vehicle law in force today. The section reads as follows:

"Any person who has been previously convicted of any violation of the provisions of this Act upon the commission of a third offense within a period of six months shall be sentenced to pay a fine of not less than one hundred dollars or more than two hundred dollars, or imprisoned for a period of not exceeding three months, or both in the discretion of the Court. Upon the certification of the Secretary of State by any Mayor, Justice of the Peace or said Judge of a third conviction for violation of the provisions of this Act in any one year, the license issued to such person so convicted may immediately be revoked by the Secretary of State, and shall not again be reissued for a period of one year after such revocation"

Both Thompson and Hatfied were the parties who ran an automobile between Middletown and Smyrna on the night of July 13th while they were under the influence of liquor. Thompson was brought before Squire Cox in Middletown and convicted and fined on three charges, two of which were violations of the automobile law, one being the operating of a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. Hatfield was arrested by the Smyrna authorities the same evening and was convicted and paid a fine before Mayor Crow of Smyrna for operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. A few weeks later the same parties crashed into a buggy in which a Mr. Legates of Farmington, was driving and after demolishing the buggy, disappeared without rendering any aid. They were brought before Magistrate Wood of Dover, recently and convicted and fined for these offenses.

Justice of the Peace Alfred G. Cox, Mayor Crow of Smyrna, and Mayor Wood of Dover, have all filed certificates in the office of the Secretary of State showing these convictions. The number of convictions against the pair exceed three within six months so Secretary of State Miller has put the law into force and revoked the licenses under the following certificate.

This is the first time that an automobile license of any character has ever been revoked by the Secretary of State.

Visited Newark

A delegation of citizens, including the Board of Town Commissioners made a trip to Newark Monday, to inspect the sewerage plant recently installed in that town by L. B. Jacobs. There was a hitch in the program, due to the failure of some one to notify Mr. Jacobs of the visit. The plant was looked over, but not much information was to be obtained on account of the absence of Mr. Jacob in Philadelphia.

A movement is on foot to apply to the next session of the State Legislature for permission to bond this town for a sum sufficient to install a sewage system and put an improved pavement on Broad street and East Main street. The system of sink wells and acesspools has contaminated a great many wells of drinking water throughout the town and a sewerage system seems to be the only relief.

SOME NOTES ON THE GAME

Odessa's old time form returned Saturday, and they defeated Y. M. A of New Castle 12 to 2.

Bill Ward retired the side in the 9th inning with three pitched balls. The first ball pitched was put to the short stop, the second to the pitcher and the third to the first baseman. He allowed the New Castle boys but 4 hits, and fanned 14 batsmen.

Gibbs was right there with the goods behind the bat, holding Wardie's shoots in fine style. Out of five trips to the plate he secured three safe ones.

Bob Heller got on five times and scored four runs. How is that for going around the bags? Bob connected with two of Taylor's benders for singles.

Heldmyer did great work at short stop, accepting every chance without an error. At the bat he connected for two singles.

Dick Cann showed the boys how to wait out a pitcher. He received three passes out of five trips to the pan.

Jones was right on the job at second base and played in his usual good style.

This makes Odessa's fourteenth game out of nineteen, not a bad record, eh! boys.

The score by innings:

Y. M. A.....1 0 0 0 0 1 0 0 0— 2
Odessa.....2 2 0 2 2 2 2 2 0 x—12

Today the Silverbrook team will be at Corbit Park, on their last visit to Odessa. They were defeated 5 to 4, this time they promise to reverse the the score, but captain Ward claims that they will not.

"In compliance of a requirement of the law of the state constitution, it becomes my duty as your secretary and servant, to render a report of the business transacted in this office for the year ending June 30, 1914.

"In presenting this annual report it will be my purpose to be as brief as is possijle consistent with the provisions of the law.

"I am pleased to inform you that the affairs of our organization have been conducted in a most harmonious and progressive manner during the past year. Our steady increase in membership certainly must be very gratifying. The phenomenal gain of Washington Camp, No. 23, at Laurel, under the leadeaship of Brother Elbert C. Baily, and a team of active workers, deserves special mention. The birth and phenominal growth of Washington Camp No. 29, at Townsend speaks well for the patriotic principles of our organization and proves what results may be obtained when the right spirit enters into the work. They certainly deserve the state trophy for the year's work and I sincerely hope that some other camp may be inspired to enter this contest, which has become a regular feature which should receive greater consideration.

"Camps throughout the jurisdiction seem to be in a flourishing condition, but deserve more attention from the individual membership and district presidents.

"Washington Camp No. 26, Greenwood, lost the greater part of their paraphernalia and books in the recent fire. They were not discouraged, however, and are holding regular meetings and transacting their affairs in a business-like nanner.

"The field for organization work is still large and fertile, ready for the proper efforts and I feel that the finances of the state camp are sufficient for an early and active campaign.

"I trust that this report presents all the information necessary to acquaint you with the progress of our state camp during the past year.

"Statistical report—Number of camps, August 26, 1913, 29; new camps organized, 1; present number of camps, 29; number of members August 26, 1913, 2,108; initiated during the year, 261; admitted by card, 2; reinstated, 7; transferred, 3; resigned, 3; died, 15; dropped, 264; expelled, 1; present number of members, 2,218. Net increase for the year, 110.

There are no contests in this county, except the one in the Eleventh Ward of the City of Wilmington, and this only affects one delegate. So the personnel of the New Castle County delegation is practically known. The claim or charge has been made in the Sussex Republican and taken up by the Democratic organs that this delegation consists largely of office-holders. We are not familiar with the men composing the City's delegation but of the 28 from the Second District, only nine are office holders and those are, with the exception of the Sheriff, clerks and other personal appointees of other officers. Therefore, the insinuation intended to be made that delegates from this county will be controlled by the so-called organization has no basis of truth.

The only nominations to be made are for Representative in Congress, State Treasurer and State Auditor. The principal business of the convention will be the adoption of the platform and declaration of principles. As to the national questions there can be no doubt of the position the party should and will take. The many things that the Democrats have done that should not have been done, and the many things left undone that should have been done, open a wide field for planks in the platform.

But, as this is largely a state election, it seems to us that there are a few things affecting the state and counties that should be the basis for planks. Two of these seem to us of great importance. First, a change in the Primary Election Law, to save the enormous expense in time, money and labor involved in our present law. We have seen last Saturday the Democrats holding a Primary to choose delegates for a State Convention to re-nominate the ticket that won two years ago, as a result of a divided Republican Party. In this county, they had one contest, and yet many thousands of tickets were printed and distributed. The Republicans have been a little more economical, their tickets being limited to less than 1200. But at both these Primaries, a full set of election officers had to sit in from 65 to 75 districts, and all the form and paraphernalia of a general election gone through with. And it must be remembered that there are two more primaries yet to be held. The total expense of these four primaries will largely exceed $5,000. Our suggestion is that one primary be held for all parties, following the plan in successful operation in Maryland and other states. A saving of more than $3000, enough to build a half mile of good stone road could be effected, and much labor saved to everybody interested.

The second thought we have about the platform is to amend the Registration Law, doing away with two of the five days on which voters can be registered and to hold the registration offices open until at least nine o'clock at night. There are in this county 149 registration places, each named by three officers at $5, each per day. Rent of the places, amounts to another $5. Thus the actual daily expense of each place is $20. Multiply this by the two days that could be saved, and then by the 149 places makes approximately $6000 that could be saved every two years, or another mile of good roads. And no one familiar with the subject can doubt that all the voters can be registered in three days as well as in five. We have always believed and have often called attention to the fact, that it is rather foolish to have a general registration every two years. There are plenty of men living in Middletown today, that have registered this year from the same house that they registered from the first year we had a registration. If we could have our way, we would only have a scrap registration every two years, with a right in the Board to strike off and add to the list subject, of course to an appeal in either event to the Court as at present. But we have been told this would require a constitutional amendment. Well, the constitution can and should be so amended, but in the meantime, the Legislature can save the state and county large sums every other year by the above mentioned simple amendments.

MIGHTY HAAG SHOWS

Wherever the mighty Haag Shows have exhibited, press and public have been a unit in praising the exceedingly large number of young and handsome women performers. Bevies of the fair sex are represented among the riders, aerialists, contortionists, jugglers, high wire artists, gymnasts, bicyclists, clowns, animal trainers, chariot drivers, and in fact even among the ring masters. As may naturally be expected, keen rivalry exists between the lady and gentleman artist, a fact which greatly enhances their performances.

The lengthy program presented this year by these shows contains only the best and most modern features that money and labor can procure, and in such quantity and variety as to satiate every arenic taste and fancy; lack of space prevents enumeration of all the different acts, many of which must be seen to be appreciated.

There is an extended list, the last of which does not by any means end the pleasures which the Mighty Haag shows provide patrons, September 7th, afternoon and evening in Middletown. There are sports of ancient Rome, and modern fete day races and contests, then the big menagerie form a zoological display without a peer in all the world. Thus it will be seen that there is a royal holiday feast in store for all who attend.

Ripe Bananas

According to Frederick Upham Adams in his new book, "The Conquest of the Tropics," there is a popular misunderstanding concerning when the banana is ripe. Mr. Adams asserts:

"The banana will never enjoy the popularity it deserves until the people of the temperate zones learn to know when it is ripe, and learn not to eat it in its raw state. There is a popular delusion that the banana has ripened when it turns from its original green to a golden yellow, and those thus deluded decline to touch this fruit when dark spots appear in the yellow skin of the banana.

"The banana is not fully ripe when it is yellow. This change from green to yellow is the first outward appearance of a chemical process incidental to the ripening. Not until a considerable portion of the skin has turned to a deep brown has this ripening process sufficiently developed to give the fruit its greatest value as a delicious and healthful food."

Opening of Women's College

Although regular class work will begin at the New Women's College on September 15, by which time both Residence Hall and Recitation Hall will be completed, the formal opening will take place probably during the second week in October. President Mitchell and Dean Robinson are at work on plans for this formal opening, and these plans will be announced some time during the early part of September. Although under the same management practically as Delaware College and receiving instruction from the same professors to a great degree, the Women's College will be entirely separate from the college for men in every way; the two colleges will be merely affiliated and not co-educational.

But the tenth time—

200 MILES

Nine times out of ten you only need to telephone locally, but the tenth time is the one which is so necessary, so urgent that not to have long distance service ready at hand is a calamity. A big business deal, your peace of mind—many things may depend on that important out-of-town call. Local service may be given by a plant that would be quite useless for a comprehensive long distance service as well, but the Bell Service responds no matter whether it's two miles or two thousand that you demand.

With 8,000,000 telephones located in 70,000 places, with a standard instrument tuned to both local and long distance service, with 2,333,541 miles of toll wires spreading everywhere, a really comprehensive service—the most efficient telephone service in the world is at the command of every Bell subscriber.

Messrs. Swift & Co., Baltimore, Md.
Gentlemen:—

I bought from your agent J. A. Cleaver, of Middletown, Del., 11 tons of your Corn and Wheat Grower, during Fall 1913, and drilled it on 75 acres of follow and threshed 2630 bushels of No. 2 Wheat in July, 1914—and average of 35 1-15 bushels per acre.

I also had 75 acres of stack ground in wheat on the same farm and threshed 2377 bushels of No. 2 wheat with Fertilizer (made by another manufacturer) drilled on it, and got an average of 31 2-3 bus. per acre, a difference of 253 bus. in favor of SWIFT & COMPANY'S FERTILIZER. I recommend Swift & Company's Fertilizer as giving good returns.

Yours respectfully,
JULIAN G. CLEAVER.

MOTHER OF SCHOOL GIRL

Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Daughter's Health.

Plover, Iowa.—"From a small child my 13 year old daughter had female weakness. I spoke to three doctors about it and they did not help her any. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had been of great benefit to me, so I decided to have her give it a trial. She has taken five bottles of the Vegetable Compound according to directions on the bottle and she is cured of this trouble. She was all run down when she started taking the Compound and her periods did not come right. She was so poorly and weak that I often had to help her dress herself, but now she is regular and is growing strong and healthy."—Mrs. MARTIN HELVIG, Plover, Iowa.

Hundreds of such letters expressing gratitude for the good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has accomplished are constantly being received, proving the reliability of this grand old remedy.

If you are ill do not drag along and continue to suffer day in and day out but at once take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a woman's remedy for woman's ills.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

GERMAN WAR BOOK IS AID TO FOES

Take Advantage of Bernhardi's Strategy Treatise.

WATCH OUTFLANKING MOVES

Teutonic Principle Is to Attack All the Time With Superior Force and "Overlap" — Stories of Refugees.

London.—There is the best reason for believing that the Anglo-Franco-Belgian armies will take full advantage of the candid exposition of German military strategy contained in the book written by General Bernhardi of Berlin, writes Edward P. Bell to the Chicago News. The German principle, according to this authority, is to attack all the time in superior strength and always to "overlap." In other words, the Germans, said General Bernhardi, when the war with France came, would hurl themselves with irresistible force against certain points in the French line of defense and at the same time outflank the enemy on the north and south.

Allies Watch Flank Moves.

The allies are especially vigilant in watching for these outflanking or enveloping movements. They have every confidence that their center of defense is proof against any assault however formidable. The allies expect to stand firm against the invaders, permitting them to break wave on wave against the line of forts, guns, rifles and mountains until they are seriously shattered and wasted and until the Russians demand attention on the east.

Then the defensive armies expect to issue from their trenches, earthworks and mountain covers and take the offensive. The object of this offensive will be to seize sufficient territory to compel the Germans, hard pressed as they are expected to be by the Russians, to conclude a peace which will be regarded by the democratic nations as safeguarding Europe from the perils of an aggressive war for at least a century.

Even if the Germans bread through the line of the allies or turn it on the north or the south they will not find the roads to Paris unobstructed. The allies are not likely to put all their money on one card, strong though that card may be. The roads to Paris are guarded by growing forces which at present will not take any part in the fighting. The battle line from Holland to Switzerland is merely the first barrier the Germans must clear.

Chicagoan Tells of Trip.

Louis A. Dumond, the Chicago municipal investigator, has reached London after a fortnight of interesting and severe experiences in Germany and Belgium.

"August 3, while I was in Hamburg, the army began to mobilize," said Mr. Dumond. "Troop trains were running in all directions and the regular schedules were reduced hourly. The American consul advised me to leave immediately and escape to London by way of Belgium. I left Hamburg the same afternoon and was due on the Belgian frontier at 12:30 a. m. The train was delayed at every station and at Cologne we were forced to wait two hours. We reached the German frontier town of Herbesthal at ten o'clock the next morning.

"There we found that the Germans had violated the neutrality of Belgium and were marching in the direction of Liege. The Belgians had destroyed the railroad from Herbesthal to Verviers, which place I managed to reach. The trains had stopped running and it was impossible to return to Germany, as Americans had been ordered to leave that country.

Says Roads Were Blocked.

"I made numerous attempts to get through Liege ahead of the German army, but was unsuccessful, either because the roads were blocked or I was turned back by German bayonets. The banks were closed and no shops, hotels or business men would cash checks, recognize letters of credit or trust any one. English and American travelers had little Belgian money and most of us had to rent the cheapest kind of rooms and buy food in the shops, thus living on a few cents a day. The Germans seized Verviers, suppressed the newspapers and subjected the inhabitants to strict control. Every window facing the street had to be closed. The houses were shut and in the evening nobody was allowed on the streets.

Prevented From Leaving the City.

"For many days every one was prevented from leaving the city. Horses, automobiles and every other means of conveyance were appropriated by the Germans unless the owners could show credentials from the German army. The Belgian citizens were reduced to a state of terror. Cannonading began at noon, August 4, and was incessant day and night, rain or shine. Houses trembled, windows rattled and at first it was impossible to sleep because of the noise. Afterward we got quite used to the uproar.

"I saw 2,000 or 3,000 Belgian prisoners marched through the streets of Verviers and it was pitiful to watch the crowds of relatives, fathers, mothers, wives and sweethearts running beside the prisoners trying to throw bread and cigars to them. The captives were not given time to catch the gifts, but were ruthlessly hurried on by the German soldiers. We Americans sympathized heartily with the Belgians. Persons who had escaped from Liege told us that the Germans had taken three forts, caused a small fire in the city and captured 3,500 prisoners.

Citizens Shot at Liege.

"August 14 a party consisting of two other Americans, myself and two Englishmen and a Frenchman obtained from the German commandant passes to return to Herbesthal on the way to Aix la Chapelle. Armed with these, we attempted to get a conveyance to the German frontier, but the cab drivers were so terrified that we tried five different men before we found one with sufficient nerve to take us. Even then I was compelled to conduct the driver to the German commander to get a paper guaranteeing the safety of the cabman, his horse and his vehicle. Our horse was so old that we had to walk up the hills. The age of the beast, the driver said, was the only thing that kept the Germans from taking it.

"While we were in Liege several citizens were shot because of remarks they made to German officers and soldiers. Apart from this the Germans appeared to treat the citizens well and paid for their supplies. The larger portion of the population who work in the woolen mills are reduced almost to starvation. The Germans buy most of the meat, bread and other supplies, and no supplies can be brought in from the outside.

"At Herbesthal we were searched and examined by German officers, and were then allowed to take a military train to Aix la Chapelle, from which place we got a cab to the Dutch frontier. At the village of Baaz they told us that we could get a train to Maastricht. On arriving there we found the Dutch army mobilized, practically all the trains used for soldiers and the main roads and bridges blockaded to resist an army of 150,000 German soldiers just outside.

"We deemed it inadvisable to wait at Maastricht for a possible train, and the next day we hired an automobile. This broke down at ten o'clock that night. The chauffeur worked frantically two hours to repair the machine, but at midnight announced that it was impossible to run on account of a flat tire. Finally he consented to go on.

"At 1 a. m. we were still twelve miles from Helder, whither we were going. The chauffeur stopped in the village of Durne. He refused to budge and left us stranded in the middle of the road while he roused nearly every one in the village in search of a horse and carriage. He returned in an hour or so and announced that it was impossible to reach Helder, and that we must spend the night in Durne. The next morning we got a train from Durne to Rotterdam. We found that city flooded with Americans from all parts of Europe, most of them possessed of only the clothes they were wearing. The next morning we caught a train to Flushing, and thence came on a crowded boat to England.

"German officers in Liege assured us that they had captured the forts, driven the Russians back on the eastern frontier and would be in Paris in two weeks.

GERMAN SIGNAL CORPS AT WORK

GERMANS THINK ENEMY FRENCH AT HAELEN

London. — Geoffrey Young telegraphed from Haelen, Belgium:

"'Fine fellows, these little Belgians—intelligent and quick to respond; rather weary now and strained, for many have been already long in the field. Day and night they have been fighting at odds of ten to one. They are men who think, and they fight better for it.

"A desperately exhausting fight it is, dispersed as they are in parties over their immense front. The wounded German prisoners, as they came in, were treated with just the same care and their death was dignified with the same respect as were our own friends.

"I was even allowed to speak to some of the wounded prisoners in their own language. Not one had a word of complaint.

"Poor fellows! They all believed they had been fighting against the French."

MARYLAND AT ANNAPOLIS

PLANS FOR MARYLAND WEEK.

Exhibition Will Be Held In Fifth Regiment Armory.

Plans for the annual Maryland Week Exhibition to be held in the Fifth Regiment Armory, November 16-21, are assuming definite proportions, and, according to those in charge, it will be the best exhibition of the State's agricultural resources ever held in this city. The week of November 16 has been designated as Maryland Week by four of the largest agricultural organizations in the State and they will unite in holding their annual exhibitions during that week. They are: The Maryland State Horticultural Society, the Maryland Crop Improvement Association, Maryland State Dairymen's Association and the Maryland State Beekeepers' Association.

Maryland Week has become a distinct feature in the State and is looked forward to with much interest by both city and rural people and has been arranged with a view to affording an opportunity for the display of the State's agricultural resources and a reunion of city and country people. With this end in view, the officers of the association have solicited the cooperation of the business interests of the city and it is expected that this year's exhibition will far exceed and excel any previous meeting.

One of the features of this year's meeting that is expected to enlist the interest of the young men and boys of the rural districts is the essay contest. The subject will be "Why the Maryland Farmers' Boy Should Remain on the Farm." The essay for the young women and girls to show their talent will be "How School Conditions in Rural Life in Maryland Can Be Bettered by the Daughters of the Maryland Farmers." Handsome prizes are to be given the winners in these contests as well as for the blue-ribbon winners in the farm product exhibits. Robert L. Graham is president of the Maryland State Horticultural Society; Charles W. Michael, of Perryman, Md., president of the Maryland Crop Improvement Association; Samuel M. Shoemaker, of Eccleston, Md., is president of the Maryland State Dairymen's Association, and J. R. Abercrombie, of this city, is president of the Maryland State Beekeepers' Association.

AGENT AND $8,000 GONE.

Package Shipped From Easton Bank To Philadelphia Disappears.

Easton, Md.—After making a plea to his employers to give him a chance to make up $774 which he had embezzled from them, E. W. Amos, 29 years old, agent for the Adams Express Company at Easton, Md., is alleged to have made off with $8,000 in currency, which was deposited at the express company's office last Thursday by the National Bank of Easton for shipment to the Franklin National Bank of Philadelphia.

Thursday night, after the money had disappeared, Amos, with his sister, Mrs. Annie L. Sudler, of Swarthmore, Pa., called on S. T. Toadvine, district manager for the Auams Express Company, and paid Mr. Toadvine the $774 which Amos admitted having embezzled. According to State's Attorney Butler, of Talbot county, that $774 is believed to have been part of the $8,000 which was stolen earlier in the day.

Amos and his sister went out of Easton in an automobile Friday morning. They were last seen in Wilmington, Del., at 2 o'clock Saturday morning. It is believed that they took a train there for the North. The police of all the large cities on the Atlantic Coast have been furnished with a complete description of Amos and are on the lookout for him.

TOMATOES BY THE MILLION.

C. and D. Canal Crowded With Boats.

Chesapeake City. — Thousands of baskets of tomatoes have passed through the Chesapeake and Delaware Canal here from New Jersey to the canneries in Baltimore. It is estimated that before the season closes 2,000,000 baskets will have passed through the canal. During the last week 109,424 baskets were shipped, for which the farmers received $30,000. The first week of the season 60 boats loaded with 220,000 baskets passed through the canal; the second week more than 100 boats loaded with over 400,000 baskets. One day 255 boats passed through, loaded with 90,000 baskets. The large number of boats passing through the canal has made it necessary to keep the big steam pump, which pumps 2,225,000 gallons of water from Back creek into the canal, running night and day in order to keep the water level at the proper height.

DAIRY

CUTTING FEED FOR THE CALF

Kafir and Corn Thoroughly Mixed by Use of Device and Youngsters Cleaned Up Mixture.

I bought 24 calves last summer which I put in my feed lot on August 15. Some of these calves had been on pasture with their mothers, others had been handfed, and it was quite a problem to get them used to a change of feed. The feed I had for these calves was green corn, kafir and prairie hay. I soon found there was too much waste in hauling this feed into the lot and allowing them to do their own picking, writes J. K. Welch of Eureka, Kan., in Farmers Mail and Breeze. I then went to my work shop and made the feed cutter illustrated. The body is made of a 1 by 12 inch board four feet long, with sides of 1 by 6 inch pieces. One leg was used at the back end and two in front, the latter extending eight inches above the frame.

The knife lever was bolted to the top of the left leg to allow using the right hand for cutting. The knife was made of a short piece of crosscut saw blade 14 inches long. This knife cuts square across the end of the box. With this machine one man could cut up enough feed for the 24 calves in from three to five minutes. The feed was cut up in one-half to one inch lengths and fed in troughs. Kafir and corn were thoroughly mixed in cutting and the calves cleaned up the mixture without waste. They had this green feed until frost killed it, and did well on it.

SUMMERTIME DAIRY RATION

By Supplying Supplemental Feeds Each Pasture Will Satisfy Greater Number of Cows.

(By M. ALBRECHT.)

By feeding the cows well during the summer, we have many points to be considered.

Each pasture lot will keep a greater number of cows in prime condition and profitably. The pasture land will not deteriorate in value as it would if overstocked.

We consider that the cows that are kept in excellent shape throughout the summer months by supplying them with both grass and dry rations will not consume such a large quantity of either as they would if fed on a single ration of grass.

When winter feeding sets in the cows will have become more thoroughly accustomed to eating grain and roughage and there will need to be no change in the feeding—just a slight increase in the quantity with no bad effects brought on as is usually the case when the change of feed is made from grass to heavier rations.

Highest Colored Butter.

Green grass is probably richer in carotin than any other dairy feed. Cows fed on it will therefore produce the highest colored butter. Green corn, in which xanthophylls constitute the chief pigment, will also produce a highly colored product. On the other hand, a ration of bleached clover hay and yellow corn is practically devoid of yellow pigments and the milk from cows fed upon it will gradually lose its color. It is, of course, indisputably true that the breed does influence the color of the milk fat; but vary the ration and there will be a corresponding variation in the color of the milk fat in each breed.

Cutting Corn for Silo.

Corn for the silo can be cut either by hand or by machine. Hand cutting is practiced on farms where the amount of corn to be harvested is so small as to make the expense of purchasing a corn harvester too great to justify its use. Hand cutting is slow and few localities now where the purchase of a harvester would not be a profitable investment.

Strict Rules for Feeding.

Ironclad directions for feeding cows cannot be given. In general, however, they should be supplied with all the roughage they will clean up with grain in proportion to butter fat produced.

Chased by Boy and Dog.

The evenings are warm enough to cause the cow's blood to surge toward fever heat while she is being driven up by a thoughtless boy and a worthless dog.

Material for Silo.

Corn husks and pea vines from canning factories, beet pulp, and other by-products are also used in certain localities for filling the silo.

Unsatisfactory Butter.

It can safely be set down that butter churned and worked too warm will be unsatisfactory in color and flavor.

Avoid Mottled Butter.

Where butter is brine salted the buttermaker is rarely troubled with mottled butter.

WAS WAITING FOR REAL HEAT

At 114 in the Shade, Farmer Didn't See Necessity for Shortening Hours of Labor in the Field.

A St. Louisian who responded to the Macedonian cry for help from the Kansas wheat fields tells this story:

"The farmer told us we were to work ten hours a day, but that when it got hot he would knock off an hour. One day, after we had been out in the blazing sun until we were panting for breath, we came in to dinner to find the mercury up to 114. We thought the farmer would say something about short hours that afternoon, but he didn't. As we started out to work I said to him:

"'One hundred and fourteen in the shade!'

"'Yes,' he answered. 'Do you feel it much?'

"'No,' I said, 'I don't mind it particularly; but when does it get hot out here?'"

PIMPLES ITCHED AND BURNED

Route No. 3, Dadeville, Ala.—"I was troubled with a terrible breaking out between my shoulders and down to my hips. It came in pimples and my back looked very red and raw. It itched and burned so that sleep and rest were impossible and I could not sleep any hardly for weeks. My clothes irritated my back till it got so sore I had to have a soft cloth pinned to my shirt.

"As I heard of Cuticura Soap and Ointment for years I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment and to my surprise and joy my itching and burning had disappeared. My back had been so raw and inflamed I could not lie on it and the first application brought relief. I washed my back twice a day with a strong lather of Cuticura Soap and then applied the Cuticura Ointment. In two weeks I was sound and well and have never been troubled since." (Signed) J. D. Abernatty, Jan. 26, 1914.

From His Point of View.

"Why aren't you over in Europe, fighting for your country?" asked the American of the European who wanted a nickel to get a drink.

"I fought over dere once," answered the foreigner.

"Ah! And did you stand your ground when a real battle came?"

"No, sir; I runned away."

"What! You ran at the first shot?"

"Yessir, mister, An' if I know eet come sooner, I run before dat!"

"That's an awful confession of cowardice. Do you consider your life worth more than other people's lives? Is your life worth more than the life of your brave captain, of your valorous colonel, your intrepid general?"

"Yessir, it be worth more."

"What do you mean, worth more?"

"Vorth more to me, ain't it?"

Extravagant Tips.

In the town of York Harbor, Me., where a large proportion of the leisure classes of the Hub goes in the summer, there is a very small boy by the name of Allen. Last Sunday they took him to church. All went well, and not a sound was heard from him till after the sermon was over and the usher was passing the plate.

The little fellow dropped in some money as directed, but when he gazed upon the dignified, frock coated plate passer he could contain his curiosity no longer.

"Mother," he said, "why do we pay that feller? He ain't done nothing!"

Two Is Company.

They strolled together along the sands of the seashore. He was smoking placidly, but her eyes roved about the deserted beach and the empty ocean. Suddenly she stopped, threw up her hands, and turned on him.

"How utterly deadly dull it is here," she cried. "Not one single human being to flirt with. You, at least, have me—but whom, in heaven's name, have I?"

A Mere Piker.

"Time flies," quoted the sage.

"Yes," replied the fool. "But he isn't crazy enough to loop the loop like some of the modern fliers."

New York will conduct a special school for the instruction of street sweepers in their duties.

The Pilgrim.

Alfred Noyes, the exponent of "paying poetry," told a good story at Princeton.

"One morning," he said, "my work was interrupted by a westerner. He rushed in on me enthusiastically. He bruised my hand with the power of his cordial clasp. He made me sit down and write my name 50 times on a sheet of foolscap that he drew from his pocket—he wanted to distribute, he explained, my autograph among all his friends. He even urged me to write a poem for him—to dash a poem off while he looked on. This failing, he would not go till I had read him a good half-dozen selections from my works."

Mr. Noyes sighed.

"And all the time," he ended, "the duffer called me Boyes."

No Chance for Him.

William Dean Howells is the president of the American Academy of Arts and Letters, and in Mr. Howells' presence in Boston one day a novelist of the "best seller" type had the bad taste to ridicule our "imitation French academy," as he called it.

Mr. Howells listened to the novelist with his good-natured smile, and then, with his good-natured laugh, he said:

"Our American academy is like death. People never joke about it unless they know it's very far away."
